Set Fire to the Gods Sara Raasch , Kristen Simmons

Kristin Daly Rens at Balzer + Bray has acquired world English rights to Set Fire to the Gods by Sara Raasch (l.) and Kristen Simmons, a duology set in a Greco-Roman inspired world. Pitched as Gladiator meets The Hunger Games, the series follows the daughter of a murdered champion seeking vengeance against the god of fire, and an underprivileged stonemason fighting to reclaim his standing under the god of earth, as they are swept into an ancient war between gods and mortals. Publication is projected for spring 2020; Mackenzie Brady Watson at Stuart Krichevsky Agency represented Raasch, and Joanna MacKenzie at Nelson Literary Agency represented Simmons.

? Dakota ? (Sarcasm is my middle name) says

This could be about grating cheese and I wouldn't care. The title alone makes me excited!

Stephanie L (catteabooks) says

My classical heart immediately underwent insane palpitations after reading this description:

- Greco-Roman inspired world
 - The Gladiator and
 - Gods of fire and earth (Hephaestus/Vulcan is that you?)

DUDE WHERE DO I SIGN???

Ellie (faerieontheshelf) says

hooooly crap this sounds amazing

Helena of Sparta ☆ says

A Greco-Roman inspired world?
Gladiator meets The Hunger Games?
A girl seeking vengeance against the god of fire?
A boy seeking to reclaim his place under the god of earth?
A war between gods and mortals?

SIGN ME THE HECK UP!
