Aislinn Boyter says

This was a hit during story-time. The play on words was skillful and funny.

Jaime Sanborn says

Preschoolers belly laugh at this book! Perfect for a story time about jokes.

Heather Richard says

Funny, particularly when kids try to remember the jokes! Perfect for 4-5 year olds.

Megan McCormick says

this book was cute but not very funny for my group of boys but could work for a little one.

Justin Castillo says

Perfect for children. Could make parents consider or reconsider birth names. Can you use your name in a knock-knock joke? There has to be one you love and hate.

Elizabeth says

Knock knock jokes AND pop ups? It's adorable to boot!

Sarah Adamson says

Described as a first knock knock joke book, it is cleverly laid out with flaps covering the hidden portion whilst the relevant words are visible.

However I had to give it only 2 stars as the jokes were awful. Whilst they might appeal to young kids and be fairly relatable with the use of kids names, they are useless for those kids learning how to put words together and spell and read themselves as they are completely distracting. I just wasn't a fan as it confused my daughter!

Samm says

Read this to my four year old niece today, I thought it was cute but she didn't laugh once...

Walter Walker says

Great interactive book for toddlers. I love the jokes and the pull back tabs for the punch line. This is a fun book to get your kids interested in reading. It is also fun for the parent to enjoy some time with the kids.

Henry (3yo) loves this book.

Terry says

My granddaughter loves this book! Therefore, so do I ;)

But seriously...

Bright, attention-getting illustrations and cute (yet not too corny) knock knock jokes! A funny little wise-cracking mouse to find on each page. Great little 'First Book'. Destined to be a favorite in our home.

Enjoyable to read over and over. And over and over, over and over, over and over..... lol jacky says

Perfect for Natalie right now as she loves knock-knock jokes, but we know none! Not the funniest ones out there because they all deal with names, but we still enjoyed reading it many times.

Lea Beall says

Do you have some very young children who love to tell jokes, but aren't very good at it? We did and we loved their jokes which had no punch line, and Knock, Knock jokes that made no sense. But when they start telling other people jokes like that, well, let's say they need some guidance. That's why we purchased this book. It is a lift the flap book, so the punch line is under the flap. There is a tiny little mouse character that adds her own little comments. The jokes are not new, unless you're 5 or 7 years old! But they are just the kind a little comedian needs. Nice drawings, clever layout. Pages are thick cardstock to stand up to curious little hands.

Sadie Allen says

I bought the book for my 5-yr old grandson! He loved and loves it. Being only 5, it's his go-to book for making his parents and me laugh. I cannot help but delight in it each time he reads the jokes because he laughs half way through each joke. For me, it's a horrible book, but for my grandson, it's a winner!

Courtney says

Probably a 3, but the joy when one of my 'kiddo's read this was contagious, we both grinned. At first he asked me to read, but I never got the chance; I read the title but omitted the author's name which he read and then just didn't stop.
He loved all the little detail, especially the little mouse.
