Thief Chantal Fernando

It always happens when you least suspect it.

Love.

The chemistry.

The pull.

Even when you don't want it to.

Timing—it's a bitch.

And then you have to make a choice.

Do you regret what is, or what isn't?

Because when love is involved, there's always regret.

And my story is no exception.

I loved this book, from beginning to end this book was perfect. Thief is sweet, sad, and hot. I wish this book was longer but only because I enjoyed it so much. The hero Dash was amazing, hot and a great person he loved his family so much and gladly sacrificed for them but when it came to Violet he was possessive and all in. Violet was smart and stubborn and kind. Reading this book I thought maybe it was a YA book but soon realized the author was just building an amazing history for this doubly amazing couple. This book starts with both Dash and Violet in high school, then we are taken nine years into the future. I do wish a situation/side character was explained more because it was interesting and I would have liked to have learned more. I can't recommend this book enough this was a quick read but one I am so happy I found.

Thief is a novella, which features the trials and tribulations of the relationship between Viola & Dash over a long period of time. A second chance romance.

I'm not entirely sure if this is a spin off from another Fernando book, as there's a lot of characters added towards the latter half that makes it feel like it might be.

The story wasn't exactly hot, or romantic, it felt more like it was about them getting together as a couple. It's a drama fuelled little read about friendship, grief and eventually, love.

Overall I enjoyed it. I was impressed by it's effect for a small book. I liked the main characters, as well as seeing them overcome their relationship & life struggles.

Spoilers for my reading buddies who don't like cheating: (view spoiler)

4 stars for story-filled YA/NA crossover, with likeable, but not loveable characters and storyline.

Meh. Boring. Characters were stupid. Nope.

Notes: Title sounds interesting. Need more info on book to decide. Blurb too vague.

I like it when you read a book and then characters from other books show up.

I didn't recognize Dash as Dash from "Maybe this time" but when Xander, Summer and others showed up I knew it was him!

MY RATING: 4 DASH STARS

This author is one of my all time favourites I am so behind with her books with time restraints with my reading material that I am FINALLY getting to this after one clicking this back in October

Straight away you get those FEELS coursing through your bloodstream, you become so absorbed in the story and that's what I love most about this author is her ability to grab your attention as soon as you start reading..

THIEF: Starts off with Viola, Max (best friends since he moved next door) and Dash during their high school years so it's got that YA element to it.

I love the dynamics between the two best friends.

There's no way in hell we'll be anything but friends at any point in our lives.

Then we're introduced to Dash, who is trying to fit in with these tight two, it wasn't a smooth first meeting between Dash and Viola, but she definitely made an impact..

I haven't had a proper boyfriend before, but if i did, I'd imagine he'd look like Dashiell

This guys is blessed in the looks department. Why are jerks always hot.

Then a tragic accident rocks their foundations to the core

He's gone,

He didn't make it.

My parents are selling the house and we're moving somewhere new.

NINE YEARS LATER:

A rekindled love but like any good book it did have it's ups and downs to begin with..I loved Dash sighs his alpha male personality, and his fierce love for his sisters..

Even though I really really enjoyed this like a greedy bitch I just wanted more.. Even though this was a short read which is read in one sitting it's packed to the hilt with the dynamics of the three friendships and unbreakable bonds, then trying to get over the all consuming grief one would expect of losing someone close to you to eventually the re-connection between Dash and Viola..It will definitely have you racing through the pages in record speed to see how it all pans out..

Even though it started off in the early stages of YA it did progress more into the NA category once it hit the (Nine Years Later) definitely a book worth reading..

Too freaked short. But... Loved it.

Mela says

A short story and there was not much going on.

The idea for a love story was quite nice and promising but there was no place (and/or skills) for more believable changes/events.

The beginning was good (high school part) but the next part was like Chantal Fernando wanted to finish it quickly but on the other hand, like she didn't want to make it too simple (and the complications made the story a bit queer).

Maritza says

Wow I absolutely loved this. Ms. Fernando has done it again, pulled me in and made me want more, more, more. Dash and Viola are meant to be together since they meet. Through ups and down and a tragic loss they meet again as adults and find their way to their HEA.

C.J. says

The first few chapters of this book were amazing and the rest were great. After the shocking twist half way through I wasn't sure which direction the story would take. I was happy with the way it went and it had a sweet ending.
