Dayclean E.R. Dinsmoor

A simmering feud between two powerful Southern families bursts into violence in the picturesque, seemingly tranquil city of Beaufort, South Carolina when a young Gullah boy, Jonah Ezekiel Egypt, runs away from a brutal foster home and into the lives of Jack Claybourn, a hard-fisted shrimper whose drinking can't drown out his tragic past; Coral Peters, a beautiful social worker with her own demons; Coral's teen-age daughter Hannah, struggling after the sudden death of her father, and Jadah Blue Jimysee, a child psychologist about to be swept into her own crushing drama. These troubled characters come together to protect Jonah when they discover a murderous conspiracy to destroy his life. To do so, they must deal with Eugenia Sams, an ice queen with a damning secret who rules Beaufort society with an iron whip, and her fugitive son Graham, a bitter, vindictive man determined to hurt everyone around him. Events speed toward a volcanic conclusion, leading from the familiar streets of Beaufort, to far-off Turkey and back again, as the war between the families comes to an explosive head that will leave a devastating end for some, but a merciful new beginning for others.

I spent the majority of this book being annoyed. Some of the story just seemed so far fetched that parts of it were unbelievable and the other half I wondered wtf was wrong with all the characters. I'd have to say they were the most annoying of all. I think the only ones I liked were Jonah and Aunt Ester. Some of the backstory was missing which I thought was important.

1. This has to be the most important one of all. Why was Jonah put into the foster care system? Who was pulling the financial strings on this? This was never fully explained. Why was Mary doing what she was doing and why did she die?
2. How in the hell could Hank walked around Beaufort for 30 some years as a homeless person and neither his wife, son, or police recognize who he was? I call bullshit on this. A person who is the eccentric is usually well known in town among everyone.

I'm sure there are a few others, but this is what I could come up with right now. It just doesn't make any sense. Every adult in this book was pretty much a clueless idiot who thought lying and hiding the truth was the best way to handle things especially when it came to Hannah and Jonah. I couldn't see any good reason why this happened. I have to say this is one of the more annoying novels I've read.

Mayn I love the way Jonah talks!

dayclean is a novel reminiscent of a Fanny Flag story but luckily not so saccharine. It starts out with boy and expands quickly to an interesting array of characters. It is fast pace and an enjoyable story.

I received a copy of this book free through Goodreads First Reads.

This book was a very tough read. The subject mater is deep and grim. Very well written with believable characters. I loved the intermingled story line. Such a wonderful read even though it had me in tears a few times. But I love a good cry with a book! I hope there is a sequel to see what is next for the characters!

An awesome story. I received this book through First-Reads and I am so glad I did. Once I finally decided to read the first page (commitment issues) I couldn't put it down. I don't remember the last time I read a novel in just a few days! This would make a great film/show.

I won this book from the author through Goodreads, first-reads giveaway. Thank you so very much.

There's so much to this story, so much emotions, depth and development of each character. Great interaction between characters. Thought provoking, what is going to happen next, that keeps your interest and reading to the very end. I certainly enjoyed this story and all the great characters so much.

I love books that take place in the south. It is a fascinating part of the country, and the Gullah culture makes an interesting backdrop for a novel. Can't wait to get it and to read it!

This novel is set in a southern setting and maybe thats why I liked it so much. I loved the dialogue of this book; It was one of the finer points of this novel. Also, I found Dayclean humorous, which made it even better! The characters of this book felt very real and you could almost feel what they were feeling at any given moment.

A great debut novel from E.R Dinsmoor. Its definitely worth a read. 4 well-earned stars.

Dayclean es la primera novela de E.R. Disnmoor. Está escrita en tercera persona. El título de este libro representa el final de una serie de eventos trágicos para llegar a un día soleado y sin preocupaciones. Lo que me llamó la atención a leer este libro fue su portada, sencilla y muy bonita. Y en mi opinión el chico que sale de espaldas en ella es Jonah, el chico en el que se centra toda la historia. El libro está dividido en cinco partes, y esas partes en capítulos. Cada parte y capítulo es nombrado con un número. La historia es contada cronológicamente, cada capítulo es la historia vista desde un diferente personaje. La autora utiliza un lenguaje informal. Advierto que es un libro para los que conocen el idioma inglés a la perfección, ya que los personajes , en especial Jonah, llegan a hablar abreviando palabras o juntándolas de una manera a veces difícil de entender.

No me gustó la historia, fue muy deprimente para mí. Adicciones, violencia, maltrato, suicidio, violación, y demás se me hizo demasiado pesimista la historia. La trama y los personajes están muy bien estructurados y tienen una personalidad muy marcada. Lo único que no me gustó fue eso, que los personajes aún no salían de un problema cuando ya estaban en otro. Supongo que fue demasiado apegado a la realidad...
¡Incluso hasta el final hubo muerte! Ya después, muy final final pues si ya cumple con el requisito del título y un nuevo día llega y todos tranquilos.

Honestamente, me costó mucho terminar de leerlo. No es un mal libro, simplemente no era mi historia.

Ojalá ustedes tengan la oportunidad y quieran leerlo para que me digan su opinión y el cómo se sintieron con todos los problemas que surgen en la historia. Sigue leyendo en Geek Marloz
