As a follow up to his best seller What In The World Is Going On?, Dr. David Jeremiah offers us more hope and encouragement in his newest book.

Living With Confidence In A Chaotic World gives us ten practical strategies on how to live, trust in God's Word and stay calm while we wait for the return of Christ.

Each of the ten strategies (stay calm, compassionate, constructive, challenged, connected, centered, confident, consistent, committed, convinced) are coupled with scriptures to solidify Dr. Jeremiah's teaching.

Ellen Christian says

Dr. Jeremiah reminds us that even during today's uncertain, chaotic times, God has promised to always be here for us. We need to find comfort in trusting Him and His plan for us. He explains that we need to remain calm, compassionate, constructive, challenged, connected, centered, confident, consistent, committed, and convinced in our daily lives.

For each characteristic that he tells us to practice, he explains how and why through stories and lots of Scriptural quotations. Dr. Jeremiah uses the Word of God to teach us how to have hope and confidence.

In his book, he discusses some of today's events and shows how they fit in with the Bible's end-time prophecies. I really enjoyed reading the parallels between what's happening in our world today and what God tells us will happen during the apocalypse.

I found this book to be very motivational and reassuring. Too often we get caught up in today's struggles and forget that God is in charge of our journey. For believers, this book should serve as a wake up call to remember what God has told us about the end times.

At the end of the book, Dr. Jeremiah asks us two questions. I won't spoil it for those of you who haven't read the book yet but I will tell you that if you read this book with an open heart and an open mind, this book has the potential to be life changing.

I first read Dr Jeremiah's books because my Bible Study group at church was covering them. One of the ladies used to attend his church in California, had heard him speak many times, and recommended his books. We did the study for What in the World Is Going On? which I enjoyed, therefore I jumped at the chance to read and review the follow-up.

I'll be honest, I wasn't expecting the suggestions Dr Jeremiah gives as to how we should live with confidence in this time of social and economic upheaval. That's not to say I was disappointed. In fact, I was constantly highlighting relevant passages because of their usefulness. It seemed that every time I opened up the book to read it, I received a wake-up call on how to live my life. And that's why I gave this book top marks. A great book is one that makes you think, and that's what this book does.

I already know that my Bible Study is going to cover Living With Confidence once we start back in September. I'm certain I'll be re-reading this book, and maybe even highlighting more of it!

Dr. Jeremiah has created a stunning masterpiece. Like many of his other books, this one is based off of a sermon series, which I wish I had been around to hear. Each chapter felt like sitting in church, and I found myself silently reading each word in his familiar voice.

"Living With Confidence..." offers an accurate portrayal of our world and current times--well, current in 2009, but still enlightening for today. Dr. Jeremiah is concise and unapologetic about Biblical truths that our secular culture may find hard to swallow. He uses interesting anecdotes and biographical accounts to enhance timely truths. His multitude of quotes leaves me believing that he is a well-read man; referencing Kurt Vonnegut scores him ten punk rock points.

"Living With Confidence..." left me with dozens of highlighted passages, by far the most quotable book I have yet to read. In some places, conviction hit me hard. In others, encouragement buoyed my faith. This book has led me to make significant changes, and it's impact will not soon be forgotten. It's one of those books that is carried with you long after the last page is turned.

Andy Mitchell says

Dr. David Jeremiah reminds Christians of the importance of being grounding in a thorough knowledge and application of the Bible.

This quick-paced book is divided into the following ten chapters:

1. Stay Calm
2. Stay Compassionate
3. Stay Constructive
4. Stay Challenged
5. Stay Connected
6. Stay Centered

7. Stay Confident
8. Stay Consistent
9. Stay Committed
10. Stay Convinced

If you follow Dr. Jeremiah's other ministries regularly, this book will not add a great deal of new insight. However, it is a concise summary of some of his latest thinking.

Full disclosure: I received a free copy of this book in exchange for an unbiased review.

Karen Graham says

This was a great book about how Christians should live in these negative and troubling times. There were so many good parts with Biblical foundations that it is hard to summarize it. But one part stood out in the book given the title was about how to live with confidence in these times. It was the part about the Strenuous Vs Sensual Christian. One is diligent and disciplined toward growing in their faith despite their feelings and the other isn't moved towards investing in their walk with God or improving their faith and understanding of the word unless they feel like it. The latter is on an emotional roller coaster with no seat belt, unprepared with their shallow faith for what this world has to offer. If you want to be rooted and stand firm in the storm, then it's the first kind of Christian that you want to be. This book is just one of many that will help you grow in faith, but none will replace the Bible itself. I definitely recommend both.

PS: The book has 253 pages.... not 80. =)

I read the real book - but like someone else said, this was the only one listed. This is a wonderful book and I was anxious to recommend it to you all!

Earthquakes, tsunamis, nuclear radiation leaks...

Floods, tornadoes, wrecks, deaths, stillborn babies...

Financial turmoil, wars, suicide bombers...

Is our world chaotic?

Can we live with confidence...here...now?

Dr. David Jeremiah very clearly lays out a tried and true plan for us of how we truly can in his book Living with Confidence in a Chaotic World. Dr. Jeremiah blankets us with rich biblical direction, encouragement, and inspiration as he walks us through ten specific ways to remain confident among the apparent chaos.

As the chapters are titled, he guides us in how to stay: calm, compassionate, constructive, challenged, connected, centered, confident, consistent, committed, and convinced as we maneuver through the war zone that is our current world.

As Dr. Jeremiah states, "In chaotic times, the battle rages wildly. More than ever we need to strap on that armor (the armor of light - walking in fellowship with God); more than ever we need to know our allies from our enemies. A soldier may stand on the wall, but he never sits on the fence." (italics mine added for clarification based on book content)

Are you on the fence---or on the wall?

As Dr. Jeremiah also states, "Now, in the fourth chapter (of 2nd Timothy), Paul tells Timothy that it's not enough to just acknowledge what is right, he must announce what is right. He must preach this truth!"

So, again I ask, are you on the fence---or on the wall?

To Not Decide...Is to Decide!

Heavily directed at Christians though inviting, intriguing, and encouraging for anyone to read, Living with Confidence in a Chaotic World gives biblical and spiritual ammo to the soul. Dr. Jeremiah helps to renew our minds, our hearts, and our resolve as we face these days of ever-increasing confusion, doubt, and difficulty.

I leave you with one last nugget from the book:

"If you remember the Bible's warnings---that the Bible and the faith will come under increasing attacks as we get closer to the return of Jesus Christ---you will not cower in fear when skeptics raise their voices. Whether they are comedians who try to soften your defenses with humor, scholars who try to overwhelm your beliefs with intellectual arguments, or religious leaders who try to convince you that the Bible is just a book, you will be ready. You will remember that 'the grass withers, the flower fades, but the word of our God stands forever' (Isaiah 40:8).

Are you living with confidence or cowardice?

Are you on the fence or on the wall?

The time to decide to stand is now.

The day of salvation and of spreading the good news of saving grace is TODAY!

I stumbled onto this book while visiting my local library, just moments after I decided to quit my job due to certain reasons. I read this book in less than 4 days, and really put me at ease. No matter what we are looking at in the world; unemployment, stress, fear in political decisions, Dr. Jeremiah's book focuses on what the Bible states about no stressing out so much that we lose faith that God is in charge and we are to be ready for Jesus's return and everything is in his hands.

This book was an easy read but full of great information. I was glad I went to the section in the library at the time I did and discovered this book.

Another great one from David Jeremiah! Interesting, inspiring, exciting and motivating... this Biblically-based book convinced me that time is short and we only have so much time to act, to help people come to Christ before He returns for us!

The sixth book I was provided to review through the Book Sneeze program LIVING WITH CONFIDENCE IN A CHAOTIC WORLD by Dr. David Jeremiah. This book was not at all what I was expecting and, therefore, was very hard to get into and process. I am sure this is a great book for people interested in reading about "the end times" but I am not one of those people...

The chapters are each titled as a command or a direction to the reader: Stay Calm, Stay Confident, Stay Connected, etc. Those are all great things to do and he has biblical evidence to support his teaching. However, the book is very wordy. I think his point could easily have come across in less than half the two-hundred-plus pages.

Sorry, Dr. David Jeremiah - it just wasn't what I expected or what I was looking for as reading material...

Pastoralmusings says

Dr. David Jeremiah writes as he speaks, and that is very well.

Simple.

Down to earth.

Biblical.

Caring.

Interesting.

These are all descriptive of Dr. Jeremiah's writing in this book.

Dr. Jeremiah recognizes that we are in very troublesome times. He acknowledges our fears and concerns. He then takes the Bible and recommends that we embrace the truths that the Bible gives us about how to live in these times.

Among the things that Dr. Jeremiah teaches us are to: stay calm, stay compassionate, stay constructive, stay connected, stay centered, and much, much more.

Dr. Jeremiah teaches us of our need to seek our answers in Gods' Word, stay active in a local church, remain compassionate and caring though we are tempted to be selfish, and to be confident that God will bring us through our troubles.

Though Dr. Jeremiah tells us so much more than this, these things are a sample of his message to us. He also tells us why these things are necessary. We should stay in God's Word, because Scripture is our guidebook, and has the answers that we truly need. We should be active in our local church, because we draw strength one from another when we do so. This book is filled with relevant teaching.

In a day when anxiety, depression, loneliness and fear are surrounding us and filling us, Dr. Jeremiah's message in this book is a necessary and helpful message. This book should be a great encouragement to all who read it. I highly recommend it.

Living with Confidence in a Chaotic World by Dr. David Jeremiah

Living with Confidence is a practical spiritual guide to thriving in turbulent times. Written with an eye on the current world conditions of economic disparity, job loss, and tragedy affecting the world today, Dr. Jeremiah guides you through Biblically sound principles of staying focused on things eternal while keeping God's peace in your day to day life.

What a fantastic resource. There was so much written in the first chapter about job loss and economic struggle I thought the entire book was going to be very depressing and dated. However, as I continued reading, the themes of "Stay Calm, Stay Compassionate, Stay Constructive", etc. are timeless themes repeated over and over in the Bible. Dr. Jeremiah presents these ideas as good general guidelines for remembering things eternal and striving to live beyond this world. What's more, Dr. Jeremiah shows practical ways to achieve each of these. He gives specific steps to take and consistently keeps his focus on Jesus and scripture. As I was reading, his words would come back to me throughout the day as a gentle reminder and help me to be more Christ-like in my evaluation and treatment of difficult people and situations.

Dr. David Jeremiah's writing style is concise, clear and interesting. I have and will continue to recommend this book to anyone who desires to grow in their walk with Jesus, whether or not in the midst of personal trouble. The advice is timely for anyone.

I am giving Confidence in a Chaotic World 5 out of 5 stars – full of excellent information, not too short and not too long, and an easy reading style.

Jeanie says

Living with Confidence is living in Christ and what he has done. David Jeremiah is very conversational in his short book always bringing you back to Christ. He shares about how we can be compassionate during these difficult times. I liked on page 32 how he writes...Compassion is hard because it requires the inner disposition to go with others to the place where they are weak, vulnerable, lonely, and broken. We like to run from suffering. Jesus embraced suffering because it brought glory to the Father. He gives 5 proofs of compassion in a Christian's life. Why is being compassionate so vital in a christian's life because the effect of compassion is that He may establish your hearts blameless in holiness. I liked how it is very intentional that to stand in faith during these times. It is not passive. It involves knowing the Father, becoming like Christ, and praying. This is not a one time experience but a lifetime experience. We do have a responsibility for our growth that is how we grow in faith. He continues by asking the question if our walk with God is all about emotions and feelings. Or is it driven by faith and the word. I will end with this and it goes with my daily bible readings, God desires a relationship with us and to know that he is the great I am. I am reading the exodus and a repeated phase is that they will know that I am Lord. Reading this short book was a great reminder.

Stephanie Ziegler says

I have been trying to expand my horizons when it comes to religion. Reading books and learning about different religions from friends (no fights because I just listen). Moreover I have been trying to learn more about what is going on with the world. I blocked it out, denial, because the economy did not hit me yet. When it did, I now have an open ear. Basically I have been naive about both topics.

I have to say that I was really looking forward to reading this book, especially reading the back cover. However, I am really disappointed. I expected the political stories to be about our present. Most of them were about the past. I do not care about a guy who had something bad happen to him in the 1800s and God got him through it. Also, not to be biased, but the book focused mostly on religion and passages in the New Testament. I would have liked to read more about politics in the present era, and basically just more politics.

The writing of this book kept my head spinning. Dr. Jeremiah would make his point, explaining in detail and I understood. However, it felt as though he was trying to make the book longer because he kept repeating himself but with different words. I read the first four chapters before I had to put the book down and carry on with my life and it was quite difficult to pick it up again. I found this book to be boring and did not answer any of my questions that I thought would be touched upon based on the back cover. In my opinion, reading this book was a waste of my time. How will I live with confidence in this chaotic world? Keep my chin up, dive into the chaos and have faith.
