Angie Quantrell says

Cute, bold colors and illustrations will attract babies and toddlers.

Beth says

Short, careful words and interactive pages make this a fun book to share with a baby.

Alex (not a dude) Baugh says

Babies and toddlers love to play peek-a-boo and this is a perfect book for that. Each left facing page has the words Peek-a and behind the right page cut out is the answer - all rhyming with you. The last Peek-a has a mirror, so young readers see themselves reflected and become part of the book. Peek-a-Moo perfectly captures that moment of anticipation between not knowing and discovering, so characteristic of the earlier books. Each book in this series focuses on a different place, and here it is a farm, so each answer relates to animals or vegetable found there. Laden's illustrations are bright, energetic and often humorous.

Peek-a-Moo! is the fifth book in this series, so be sure to check out these companion books: Peek-a-Who! Peek-a-Zoo! Peek-a-Boo! and Peek-a-Choo-Choo!

Dana says

Another version of the first book Peek-a-Who? This one with a farm theme.

Tina says

A creative extension on the Peek-a theme, but still not as good as the original Peek-a-Who?.

Mel-Mel says

3.5

Christine Irvin says

This book has cut-outs throughout the pages. The title of the book is PEEK-A MOO! and the cover is cut out to show a pair of eyes. When the page is turned, a cow's face is revealed. The next cut-out shows a field of red with some green leaves. Turning the page reveals a tomato. Each cut-out is in the same shape in the same place, but each one reveals something completely different. There is a rhyme scheme, also, as the first text says "Peek a boo." The next one (for the tomato) says "Peek a grew."

This is a book that is sure to become a favorite for little ones.

Amory Blaine says

This is a creative take on Peek-a-boo, but I think any kid young enough to play with board books probably won't be able to guess the answer. The art is also slightly freaky.

Juliana Lee says

What rhymes with boo? Play peek-a-boo to find silly rhymes.

Cheriee Weichel says

We love this. Ada laughed with delight the first time we read it. She loves to turn the pages herself and tries to make the sounds of the surprise. She sure surprised me when we got to the grew page and she showed me the sign for food! Just about her favourite page is the rooster shouting cock-doodle/doo! I only picked this one up two days ago and have read it at least a dozen times. Now to see if the other grand baby loves it as much.
