Juliana Lee says

Another installment in Little Blue Truck's adventures. This time the frog picks up his fellow frogs on the farm, stopping to say yoo-hoo to all the farm animals and their new babies. Lively rhymes and fun lift flaps make this a great interactive read.

Sara (SJWonderlandz) says

With Little Blue Truck being a favorite to read in our house we had to add this spring time flip book to our collection. My daughter loves looking behind the flaps.

Luisa Knight says

Here's a favorite with the little boys, though girls will like it too! Rich, vibrant countryside scenes to look at and fun pop-outs to explore will make this a frequently asked for book!

*Like my reviews? I also have hundreds of detailed reports that I offer too. These reports give a complete break-down of everything in the book, so you'll know just how clean it is or isn't. I also have Clean Guides (downloadable PDFs) which enable you to clean up your book before reading it! Visit my website: The Book Radar.

Shiloah says

We enjoyed the first book and the second one is cute too. Love the flaps!

Chance Lee says

Pleasant book with sounds, animals, and some light counting.

Ina says

Little Blue Truck and Toad hit the road to see what's new in Springtime. As they drive rhyming text greets a series of animals and invites readers to lift the flap to see the animal babies underneath. Opportunities to engage the reader by making animal sounds and counting babies. Wonderfully lilting text and softly colored illustrations make this a marvelous book to share.

Stacy says

I had high expectations for this book. Just not as enjoyable as the others in this series; rhymes are forced. The "yoo-hoo" gets annoying.

Jude says

If this were the first book in the "Little Blue Truck" series, I'd be more forgiving. This one feels like it's reaching for a much younger audience than the previous installments. I wish I had read it before purchasing it because it is underwhelming.

Ames Public Library Youth Services says

What a lovely springtime book! The illustrations by Jill McElmurry really shine as this board book uses flaps to highlight many farm animals and their births in the spring.

The text will also lend itself well to reading out loud, as it has a nice rhythm and rhyme.

Emily says

Cute book, pretty pictures, but not one I'd want to read aloud every night for the next six months. There is no there there.

Teri-K says

My 3 year old grandson loves these books, so of course I had to buy him this one for Easter. We've been reading it multiple times every day since then and he takes it to bed with him at night. I like that each book in the series is a little different - this one is an open-the-flap book. Each page has a different kind of animal, with their baby animals under the flap. The illustrations are beautiful, very colorful and full of little details like a mouse hiding in the barn. Also, alongside the main story there are frogs who make crowns of the different colored flowers on each page and hitch a ride on the truck. In addition, each baby animal is referred to by its correct name, so kids get used to hearing those terms.

My grandsons live with my son, their father, and the book only once refers to the parent animal as mother. The rest of the time the story just says "horse" or "rabbit". So it works well for our family. On the page where it talks about "Mother pig", my grandson wanted to know where the Daddy pig was. This kind of thing matters to little kids, so I'm happy that they made the story work for any parent figure. (Lots of spring time books assume the babies are always with their mother.) In our case he decided the Daddy pig was inside the barn and then he was happy. :)

(The flaps are large and pretty sturdy so I expect the book to hold up pretty well to all the attention he's giving it.)

Little says

Artwork continues to amaze, and I love the idea of touring the farm and seeing all the baby animals being born in Springtime. I would say this is a perfect book for children who are starting to understand farms and baby animals. In short, my baby is currently too young for this book, as it lacks the jaunty rhymes of the original.

Katelyn Marie says

Very cute and Sweet!!! Beep! Beep!

Courtney says

This one is cute but the yoo-hoo is a little weird. But my little loves it and little blue truck. So it's a winner here.

Miss Pippi the Librarian says

Little Blue Truck (and toad) are off on a drive. They find animals friends along the way. It was a fun read to share with a group. We all said, "Yoo-hoo" together as well as counted baby animals.
