Have to admit that I really really enjoyed this book. The title was perfect for the story line.

Layeshia says

This is the love story of Belinda and Griffin. Belinda and Griffin are in-laws their siblings were married and tragically died in a car accident leaving both of them legal guardians of their 12-year-old fraternal twin nieces. So Belinda and Griffin have known each other for at least 13 years and on the surface they don't like each other but unbeknownst to each other they both had a thing for each other. He thought she was too young for him she thought he was a panty chasing womanizer. And she wasn't trying to be a notch on anybody's belt. But coming together to take care of their nieces showed a different side that the other didn't know existed. Even though things were going good between them an incident in her past threatens their relationship. Overall this was a great story believable characters and I highly recommend this book definitely five stars.

Misherald Brown says

Rochelle introduces a new of family educators who seem to need a little education their selves.

Belinda Eaton never saw herself as a parent but when she becomes the mother to her nieces as well as her goddaughters after a tragic accident she finds herself dealing with the man she had come to dislike Griffin Rice is her nieces' uncle/godfather. When she finds herself having to co raise the girls with him she realizes her life is going to change for the better or worse she's not sure yet.

Griffin Rice is a prominent lawyer who enjoys dating and women but when he finds himself, a father to his twin nieces he realizes that life is not always about parties. He starts to realize that he wants to make an impact on their lives but not before, he finds himself falling for their aunt who he had always considered stuck-up.

Griffin & Belinda have found their selves looking at each other in a new light as they begin to spend more time together but when tragedy strikes close to home it helps Griffin and Belinda realize their feelings for one another. Rochelle writes an extremely strong story dealing with delicate issues without losing focus on the romance of the story. Rochelle's characters were strong as well as real cannot wait until we meet the next Eaton to meet their match.

Angelicia Whitaker says

I prejudged this book, but its actually a good read. Not a lot of drama but still interesting.

Debbie says

Belinda and Griffin are drawn into a relationship when they become co-parents to their twin nieces. (Belinda's sister and Griffin's brother were married.) This was a pretty realistic romance and I enjoyed the verbal sparring between Belinda (a teacher in a rough public school who doesn't take any shit) and Griffin (a tough-talking sports lawyer who has always wanted a family). They try to fight their attraction due to the misperceptions they have always had about each other, but in the end, sparks fly and they get their happily ever after. There are some sexy times, but not, like, on every page.

Shawnette says

A GREAT start to the Eaton series...enjoyed the HEATED verbal sparring between Griffin and Belinda...they are two LIVE WIRES...and once they realize they are attracted to one another the SPARKS definitely start to fly...Sabrina and Layla are simply ADORABLE...and the secondary cast of characters aid in keeping the story flowing...I also learned some INTERESTING historical tidbits throughout...a SWEET read.

The Book Chick says

Rochelle Alers just keeps surprising me. She writes love like nobody's business and just when I think she's refined and safe she throws a little wildness in there. Entertaining read. And her love scenes are literary genius

Teresa Scott says

I am loving this author. When reading romance novels, I get tired of the same old break up, then make up. This was different and I really enjoyed it.
