How am I to express the awesomeness that is The Legend of Sun Knight?

Let's start with the Sun Knight

A benevolent man who spreads the loving wisdom, guidance, and mercy of the Light god. He cares nothing of appearances, but was born with natural and flawless beauty. He knows not of anger or vengeance only forgiveness and pity. Despite his gentle qualities the Sun Knight is also brave and fights the undead, raised by evil and immoral necromancers who dabble in dark magic, with his brilliant swordplay. He is the very definition of honorable and compassionate.

Then there is the Judgement Knight.

Honorable but severe. He is the merciless side of the light god. Judgement is the one to punish criminal as quick as the Sun Knight is to forgive them. Because of their vast difference in the way they believe justice should be dealt the two do not get along. Stern and relentless the judgement knight does not tolerate doing wrong.

The Sun knight is (arguably) a good person, but anyone who truly knows him is a little scared of him. His skill with the sword is horrible. He hires a necromancer, who is actually a friend of his, to resurrect weak undead creatures. He takes better care of his skin than anybody I've ever known. If someone were to ever cross him forget forgiveness of the light god, the sun knight is taking him or her straight to hell. He actually quite skillful magically, but does not reveal it unless it's to heal. He'll smile to your face spouting the mercy and glory of the light god while plotting your doom. However, if it was up to the sun knight he wouldn't bother with most of the things, like skincare or faking battles but he required to. It's kind of like his job. He would much rather laze around and eat snacks made by the Frost Knight. Overall, the sun knight doesn't start conflict, but he'll end it.

The Sun Knight is actually more relentless than Judgement Knight who is actually very nice and is Sun Knight's best friend. Judgement puts up a facade as well because he too is required to act cruel. The fact that he can kill you in one move helps his image too.

The story is hilarious and full of satire. Sun Knight is my fave character of all time. I could go on to mention more like the other knights or the pope.

I laughed so hard while reading this. I feel bad for Creus because he has to spout those words so much. I bet he could make an arm surrender by constantly talking like that. Oh man and Leish is so sexy. They all are.
