WeirDo Anh Do , Jules Faber (Illustrator)

My parents could have given me any first name at all, like John, Kevin, Shmevin . . . ANYTHING. Instead I'm stuck with the worst name since Mrs Face called her son Bum.

Meet Weir Do. No, that's not a typo, that's his name! Weir Do's the new kid in school. With an unforgettable name, a crazy family and some seriously weird habits, fitting in won't be easy . . . but it will be funny!

Ages 6+

Finally a book that has my son interested - having struggled with dyslexia, my 8 year old has hated books. Not any more.

Simon Sweetman says

Pretty good fun - about right for a 6yo's attention span (and your average internet-surfing adult).

Sue Gerhardt Griffiths says

4.5 stars

It may only be a kids book but I thought it was excellent and hilariously funny. I'm the type of person that finds any type of humour very funny. I can laugh at most things and I laughed myself silly in some of these pages. Looking forward to reading more of WeirDo and his family's amusing behaviour.

Highly recommended for kids and adults alike.

Lee says

Both kids loved this. Great Aussie humour!

Weir Do is not only a weird new kid at school, he has a weird unforgettable name as well!

This is a hilarious story that shows the difficulty of fitting in. Readers will meet Weir's crazy family, experience his life at school and unusual habits.

Packed with funny illustrations and easy to read type this is a great book for young readers.

I remember when I first saw this book at Big W I thought I'd like to read it some day...Yes, this book is for little kids but still I wanted to read it. A few days ago as I was going through my Kindle books I remembered I wanted to read this book so I purchased it in Kindle form.

As I expected it was a very quick read and it is clearly aimed at Primary School children. It is a silly book and a few times I giggled to myself. It's about Weir Do and as you guess when you put his first and last name together to get WeirDo. The book basically follows Weir at school from him making new friends to having a crush on the 7th hottest girl in class.

Light hearted read!

Funny

Although quite funny and enjoyable, I couldn't work out which age group would like this. The content - girlfriends didn't seem to gel with the other activities.

Sally Flint says

a fun short read to entice reluctant readers into believing that books can be funny and cool. It shamelessly uses toilet humour and stereotypes of school behaviour to explore what it is to be the new 'uncool' kid in class. With very little text the book really hits the spot and you find yourself caring massively about the kid called 'WeirDo'. Through the use of fantastic supportive illustrations we learn masses about how important the need to belong is and how unprincipled we are prepared to be to be accepted. WeirDo makes friends with Henry as Henry is even less cool than him. This book is short and simple enough to be really useful when exploring PSHE issues in a school's tutorial programme.

What do you get if you cross one of Australia's funniest comedian's the "happiest Refugee" with Diary of a Wimpy Kid? You get WeirDo the hilarious new children's book from Anh Do.

It tells the story of a young kid called Weir who's last name just happens to be Do - he's first day at a new school doesn't start well when the teacher introduces him as WeirDo - but he isn't the new kid for long and quickly finds that being a bit weird isn't that bad.

This is a quick read (well for me anyway) with some great cartoons to go along with the story. Its broken into little 'chapters' which is great for struggling readers. We got this book for the school library - I know its going to be very popular.

As a teacher, I often come across reluctant readers. The kids have all enjoyed this one though - great to find one that sparks ALL the kids interest!
It's fun for the whole class to relate together as "Weirdo's".

Sarah Epstein says

Funny and fast little read with really clever illustrations. My 9-year-old is currently reading it. I chuckled all the way through. :)

Jack says

This was absolutely hilarious! Anh Do has done it again! It was an incredibly funny experience. I would recommend this book to to anyone who wants their brains to blast out of their heads laughing!

This is my new favourite book at the moment! It's just hilarious! (Will probably change in a few days) From Anh Do the Award Winning Author of The Happiest Refugee comes a brand new book called WeirDo! Weir is a kid with a strange first name (Weir) and a strange last name (Do) put them together and you get WeirDo. But despite his name Weir is a pretty normal kid (his does have strange habits that you might find weird but I don't cause I do some of those things myself) but his family members are really STANGE despite having normal names. It's vice versa. I cannot explain how much I enjoyed this! TRUST ME AND READ IT! I GUARANTEE IT'LL MAKE YOU LAUGH AT LEAST ONCE (If not 100x+) SO THERE'LL BE NO SPOILING COMING FROM ME ABOUT THIS BOOK BECAUSE YOU'LL HAVE TO FIND OUT HOW AWESOME IT IS YOURSELF! I loved the pictures even though they were only black and white they were still cute and wonderfully drawn. The talent of Cartoonist Jules Faber (I knew he was a cartoonist cause I saw him in the newspaper in the article it also said they're working on a sequel due out next year! :)

Mark Gee says

Very funny. Great illustrations. Well paced. The writing fits for year 4. (It's Josiah's book). But then the boy is keen on a girl????

Bolor Ganzorig says

This book is absolutely AMAZING everyone should read it

Matt says

I got this book for my 9 year old and his 13 year old brother nicked it!

The whole family ended up reading this one - great stuff Anh!

Emma Norris says

It is AWESOME. I liked it because it is funny and gripping.

Sam Schroder says

OK, picture this... I read Chapter 1 to my gorgeous grandkids at bed time. Evie zoned out after about 3 pages, preferring to fake read the Tinkerbell book Uncle Julian found for her at the op shop. But Asher giggled and pointed and loved every minute. So I sent him off to his bed with the book and for the next 20 minutes I read Tink to Evie while he chuckled and giggled his little head off. So once they were both asleep, I snuck the book back from under his elbow and read it myself. It really is very clever. No wonder Asher was giggling. Weir Do gets laughed at a lot. You're not surprised, are you. It's got something to do with his name.

Lyndall says

Very funny as expected because it's Anh Do. The humour is witty and suits all age groups. I love the problem a strange name can cause. I have a Vietnamese friend who is Phuc (pronounced Fook) and is now known as Peter, kids can be cruel.
