Faster Than Falling Nathan Van Coops
Beneath the Ocean of Sky, Heroes Will Rise.
(*Available July, 2017)

Samra Rose is in trouble. Living in a colony floating high above the clouds, she's been far away from anything resembling an adventure, but when aerial raiders carry off her home—with her inside—she gets more excitement than she ever wished for. Her best friend, Kipling, and a Grounder boy with a skyship will take to the air in pursuit, but all three will face dangers they've never imagined. The aerial ocean is a turbulent place full of deadly creatures and cutthroat pirates. If they hope to survive, they'll need to fight for their place in the Heights and confront those who have already claimed it.

Follow the adventures of three unlikely heroes as they abandon the safety of home to seek a destiny aloft in the clouds.

Fans of grand science fiction universes, steampunk airships, and daring pirate adventures will discover a thrilling new world of action, villainy, and friendship.

Make the leap into the sky today! Find out if you have what it takes to soar...

Another great book by Van Coops. I enjoyed his other books a great deal (great writing, interesting characters, thrilling plot) so when this one came out I had to read it too.

It didn't disappoint. It took awhile for him to set the world up but it was still paced well. The plot took turns I didn't expect and I like the rotating perspectives on moving the book along.

My only knocks are I wish the 'villians' were a little more fleshed out and even though I enjoyed the main characters I kept remembering how young they were supposed to be (early teenagers) but how mature they acted. I guess that could be a pro because YA books are so worn out these days but it doesn't present as a YA book.

Looking forward to the next one in this series!

A terrific imagining of a different world.

I love this new adventure from Nathan van Coops, and look forward to seeing it's characters continue to develop and grow!

Ginelle Blanch says

This book was...an adventure, to say the least. Colorful and vivid. The concepts were foreign to me, making this book fantastically unique...which speaks to the author's storytelling abilities that it would be so vivid!

For me, it really was not a quick read. There is a lot going on and a lot to learn about the world that's been created. But, the learning is worth it! If I had to liken it to anything it would be a cross between Peter Pan/Star Wars/Flight of the Navigator.

Innocence and light.

Danger and dark.

Fearlessness, selflessness.

Friendship and greed and revolution.

Tribulation and triumph.

Where I started off really unsure of the book, I ended up strongly invested in it. And, it ends in such a way that you KNOW there will be more. I'm so looking forward to more!

Blanche Padgett says

Awesome story and characters. I loved everything about this book. I can't wait to read more

Cindy Scheffler says

I wonderful start to a series. The characters are very believable and the adventure is full and fun to read. I can't wait to read the next one.

Dan McCrory says

I find the occasional YA book that has a broad enough appeal to interest even me. Van Coops creates a culture that has its own rules and introduces folks who are a lot like us. Falling is a world that gradually unfolds with a balance of wonderment and whimsy and surprises around every corner.

I received an ARC of this book as one of the beta readers. That doesn't change the fact that I really enjoyed the book. Nathan Van Coops has created a unique world filled with interesting characters.

The book is very different than the In Times Like These time travel series which introduced me to this author and made me want to read more of his work. Faster than Falling is more fantasy than sci-fi and is more in the vein of the Molly Fyde series by Hugh Howey. It is targeted to YA but can be enjoyed by young and old alike. Happy reading!

Bethany Cousins says

Nathan Van Coops has very quickly become one of my favourite authors. His talent for creating perfectly detailed and extraordinary new worlds is quite unsurpassed. 'Faster Than Falling' reels you in from the opening words, and remains wildly captivating until the very last page. Filled with outstanding characters, bold escapades and breathtaking scenery, it is a fast-paced and brilliant adventure for all ages.

Marilyn says

This is a totally enjoyable book. Anyone who loves airships, adventure, pirates, and incredible problems to solve will not be disappointed. Not to mention a new world where illuminated globes drift in the sky, inhabited by beings with envious abilities!

There are so many wonderful characters that it is hard to pick a favorite. You'll be swept away by the thrilling adventures our young heroes and heroines have.

I love most especially the flying scenes and the harrowing escapes our heroes have to attempt.

As usual, Nathan has also written a story rich in strong friendships and touching scenarios.

The villains have a unique quest and this is such an original and creative element developed by this great author. And if you have read Nathan's fantastic time travel series, In Times Like These, you'll discover a connection! So well done, Nathan!

Marilyn Gast says

I have been a beta reader for this upcoming book. It is a really great read! I've read it 5 times already. I think it would be a good book for anyone who likes fantasy or science fiction, young or old. The main characters are young, but deal with some seriously dangerous situations. It is a page turner from the get go. There is no swearing nor sexual innuendos/situations, which is a refreshing change from most literature these days. I truly enjoyed this experience and the book and can't wait for the next installment to come out!

I think that once started, the book could be finished in a long evening if you're a fast reader who can't wait to find out what happens next. If you're a slower reader, it could take a few days.

OMGosh - I received an advance copy of this book for review purposes and couldn't put it down! Action packed adventure and unforgettable characters make "Faster Than Falling" one of my all-time favorites. Enjoyable for adults and teens alike. Clean, fun, powerful, and just amazing! I'm giving a copy hot-off-the-press to my 12-year-old granddaughter who is Samra 100%!!!

Mark Speed says

Faster Than Falling is book one of a new series from the best-selling author of the series.

Nathan Van Coops has created an extraordinary world, where the skies are navigated by an indigenous race of humanoids who are able to fly, and live on giant floating plants. Mankind is also present, but is mostly confined to the ground. (Part of our puzzle is how and why mankind is in this world.)

Our three young well-drawn heroes are very different individuals - and one of them is a complete stranger to the other two - but they all share the same longing for adventure. As the old adage says: 'Be careful what you wish for' - and, boy, they get it...

The lives of each of the three is thrown into chaos, and they are thrown together in an epic tale of adventure and coming-of-age.

There are a number of things I loved about the story. The extraordinary world the author has created has been very carefully thought out, and he's really exploited the range it gives him. Furthermore, he's not afraid to make us see the point of view of the people who should be the bad guys, and even to kill characters the reader enjoys.

My guess is that this is another well-deserved hit for Nathan Van Coops. I think his core audience will love it, but it will also appeal to a slightly younger audience. If I had kids then this is the kind of classic story I'd want them to read.

Disclosure: I was a beta-reader, and read it well ahead of the launch.

Jennifer Reaves says

I quite enjoyed the story. The build of the characters and the tempo in general was well done for the start of what I hope will be a fun series. I hope to see more of these characters.

Not my usual taste, but I really liked the In Times Like These trilogy.
