When a supernatural killer is implicated in a string of cannibalistic murders, federal exorcist John Starkweather must track the demon down with the help of his live-in lover, Caleb Jansen. Caleb is possessed by Gray, a vampire spirit who is a natural demon hunter.

Caleb's desire to find the killer is tempered by the knowledge his own time is running out. If John can't successfully figure out how to exorcise Gray before forty days are up, the possession becomes permanent.

When John's ex shows up, looking for a place to stay while visiting the city on business, tensions mount even higher. Lines are drawn and Caleb learns some decisions, once made, can never be changed.

The problem with getting the bundled series audiobook is that you just can't stop listening!!! This is my second (or third?) listen and I love it just as much!

Chris says

What the heavens ??? They cannot take Caleb & Grey away- this next book best rectify the situation! Grow some balls John and sort this mess out

Tully Vincent says

4.5 stars... because that ending!!! Damn... I'm glad I have the next book already or I'd be whining. Parts of this one were hard to read. Horrible, awful, powerful bad guy... YUCK. Loving this series.

Jewel says

4.5 Stars

Holy moly, these just get better and better! I'm glad I am reading them now, rather than when they came out, because cliffie!!! Though I need to jump into a different book before I read books 5 and 6 here, so...

I am loving John, Caleb and Gray. So much uncertainty regarding how things are going to end up. Gray has developed feelings for John and Caleb, but he doesn't think the feelings are returned and Caleb is so uncertain as to where his relationship with John will be whether or not they are successful exorcising Gray. And that ending! I'm at the edge of my seat -- I'll come back to this series in a couple days.

Macky says

Noooooooooo! WTF!! How can I wait till 2014 after leaving it like that? God I Love this series but it always leaves me wanting more and biting my nails to the quick. What's going to happen to the gorgeous Caleb and my lovely fangy Grey? Will John cotton on to whats really happening? What is really happening? OMG! the plot sure is thickening.... ARRRGH! I need to know and I need to know NOW!

Did I say I love this series.....

First Re-read 5 January 2018

Still just as hard to read the second time, even knowing how things turn out. I like my escapist reading to be a little more on the lighter side.

New Favorite Quote:

more jagged edges which will never really fit back together they way they once were.

Original Review 6 July 2014

So sad! Everyone is so sad in this one, it was harder to read. And the ending! Thank god I've already got #5 or I would be freaking out.

Favorite Quotes:

"Killing, eating, and dismembering victims is almost always a male trait when NHEs aren't involved."

"Go us," Caleb muttered.

"Fine," Caleb muttered. Outnumbered in his own damn head; this had to be a new low.

It is terrible in a way he did not know something could be terrible.

Gray suppresses a sigh. I suppose we must save him.

"I guess," Caleb agrees with a singular lack of enthusiasm.

These books just keep getting better and better...<3

Aside from some of the gross factor tied into demons eating people, this was another great installment to the series. I am curious about how this one ends because Caleb is going away with John's SPECTR boss (forget his name), and I don't have a good feeling about this! Narration is still great and I need to find out more about this series because I don't think it ends at book 6. Fingers crossed!

Em says

What an ending! I'm so glad I can move straight on to the next installment, rather than have to wait like a lot of people have had to do, I don't know what I would have done. The 40 day time period is nearly up and everyone is waiting to find out if Gray will take full possession of Caleb or not and if not, what is going to happen? Gray insists he doesn't know what all the fuss is about and is quite relaxed about the whole thing (apart from the fact that he will need to find a new host and this one won't be alive!). Can't wait to find out what will happen!

3.7 Stars - Another tidbit on the road to solution

Book #4

Clicked and downloaded the new audiobook edition a week ago.
Another new creepy storie part about three souls and their love-tale.

Eater of Lives, is the fourth (3 hr) novella part in the SPECTR series. PRN crime novellas written by a by me favorite author - Jordan L. Hawk (who also writes Whyborne & Griffin's adventures in the 1890:s).

Add to that: — Narrated by a simply fantastic voice belonging to Mr Brad Langer (a la Nick Nowak in Boystown).

Add as well: — Two yummy 'living' characters in John and Caleb... and mostly off-screen, Grey.

For me a new and kind of fresh take on the paranormal M/M genre (no wolves..). Both creepy and spooky stories with well done interesting crime cases.

‘Eater of Lives’ - a perfect title

The crime investigation this time has to do with Valerie, the slender young woman who just wants to manage to eat less. A deal with an evil that just makes it all the more devastating. And dangerous.

In each part is the SPECTR case an adventure in full-rushing speed. A bit scary, very raw, suspense-filled and dripping bloody. This author has truly an incomparable talent for scary things and all the night's creepy species. ~ Boo!!

On their home front rolls it on pretty good. It's hot —filthy hot— in the bedroom, but then suddenly pops an old boyfriend up in the door. ...D@mn it!!

After all, this is a gay romance, and that is why I will return to these books, so of course is it this new, yet fragile, relationship that makes my interest keep growing. It's not over yet, and this time it all ended with a question mark. What happens now?

Two more book-parts to imbibe. May they be released as audio books soon. ~ Next #5 - Destroyer of Worlds.

I LIKE - YEP, despite a cliff hanger ending...

K.J. Charles says

Another fantastic installment in the SPECTR series. We are getting seriously angsty now, as Gray and Caleb's situation closes in on them. The storybuilding is terrific, Gray is developing in a very interesting way, and the monster they face in this episode is magnificently nasty.

You definitely need to commit to the series here, not dip in. The next one isn't out till Feb 14. I may gnaw off my own foot waiting.

Linda ~ chock full of hoot, just a little bit of nanny ~ says

Ugh! NOOO! Not the "MCs refuse to talk to each other so Big Misunderstandings" occur! And not the "ex comes back and causes trouble" trope. You're better than this, Ms. Hawk. So I could knock off half a star for that nonsense, but the rest of the relationship stuff was strong enough to overcome it. (And I guess when you fall in love in just a few weeks, before you really get to know the other person, it's not too far out of the realm of possibility for these things to occur.)

Complicating things further is just the basic way that possession works in this world, and we get to "go inside" the head of another victim. It's a great way to counter what's happening with Caleb/Gray and seeing why anyone would be extremely concerned about John at this point, and why Caleb is worried about losing himself completely if the 40 days come up and they haven't succeeded in exorcizing Gray. How can he really trust what Gray tells him, that Gray won't take over his mind, especially when they're getting better at sharing his body.

And then cliffhanger! Thank goodness this series is complete already. Onto the next!
