I received this through the Goodreads Giveaway program and I'm so happy I did!

My grandchildren are coming on the 4th of July and I can't wait to sit down with them (ages 3, 7 and 9) and explore this wonderful book. I grew up embroidering, and taught myself and my daughter how to cross stitch, so I'm excited about passing these skills along to another generation!

Since I've made needlepoint baby blocks using plastic squares, the templates in this book remind me a lot of that project. I'm sure my grandchildren will love this book, since they're really into crafts and love trying new things.

Thank you so much!

What a cute, sweet book! My 5 yr old struggles with learning how to knit (she desperately wants to!), so I was thrilled to get a copy of this book for review. It is the perfect way to introduce her to sewing and she is delighted with it!

gave this book to a friend for her 7 year old granddaughter. kept the little girl busy for hours. she loved it! the designs are appealing to a wide age range. there is room for creativity for young children as well as older ones. the punch out pieces are sturdy enough to be used over and over if desired.

the holes for stitching are a little small for some yarn needles, but a large tapestry needle will fit through. pearl cotton worked very well for the thread and it is available in many colors.

Not only does this book contain 36 completely darling punch out templates, but it teaches you the basics and gives you ideas for what to do with your stitchables. This is more than just a book. It is a wonderful activity to share with any young child to help develop fine motor skills and pass some time. We brought this and a baggy of supplies with us on a plane ride and it kept my 5 year olds engaged for most of the 3 hour flight. Grab some thread, needles, scissors and this book and you have hours of fun ahead.
